Comparison of the KAP for folate intervention among women with in vitro fertilization/intracytoplasmic sperm injection twin pregnancies. Previous studies have demonstrated that in vitro fertilization (IVF) twin pregnancies have a higher rate of congenital malformations (CM) than singletons. To improve the outcome of IVF twin pregnancies, we planned to target at the pregnancies in which adverse perinatal outcomes have been observed. The aim of this study was to compare the knowledge and attitudes on pregnancy nutrition and medicine among women with IVF twin pregnancies and women with singletons. This is a cross-sectional study based on 300 pregnant women with twin pregnancies and 300 women with singleton pregnancies, recruited from a university hospital in Seoul, Korea. They were divided into two groups based on pregnancy method, and an anonymous questionnaire was used for data collection. The completed questionnaires were analyzed by using independent t-test and one-way ANOVA. To analyze univariate logistic regression, odds ratios and 95 % confidence interval were calculated. The median age of the women with twin pregnancies (25.2 ± 3.2 years) was significantly lower than the age of women with singleton pregnancies (26.0 ± 3.1 years). There were no significant differences between the two groups in proportion of age, education levels, source of abortion, past obstetric history, multipara, and history of infertility. More than half of the women with twin pregnancies had previous knowledge on folate (87.1 %), folic acid (59.4 %), and pregnancy nutrition (67.2 %), compared with the previous knowledge of women with singletons (61.3, 51.8, and 62.4 %, respectively). The level of women's knowledge on folate and folic acid was significantly higher in the IVF twin pregnancies group than in the singletons group. In the area of nutrition, women with IVF twin pregnancies had more knowledge of pregnancy nutrition than women with singletons ($P = 0.011$). Women with IVF twin pregnancies and singletons had significantly different attitudes, especially when they had prior knowledge about folate. Women with IVF twin pregnancies had relatively better knowledge and attitude about folic
